Who is your favorite Author and why?

Gordon Korman because he uses so much detail in his books. Korman also can write a book that intrigues the reader to continue to want to read the book.

What genre do you prefer to read?

Realistic Fiction because I like to have something I can relate to in real life and since the characters are generally human, it make it easier to know what the characters look like.

Where do you learn about books you might want to read in the future?

The library or I ask my friends what books they like. My friends and I all enjoy the same genres so when somebody reads a really good book they tell my other friends and me about the book.

Griffin Bing's school was recently gifted a Super Bowl ring, Griffin was admiring it. He went to his friends' houses after school and suddenly noticed his retainer was missing. He checked everywhere but he couldn't find it. The next day at school he noticed the ring was gone. A yellow and silver object was in its place. His retainer. Griffin learns to say what is right even if nobody agrees.

He panics because everyone thinks he stole the valuable ring. Griffin goes to trial but the judge did not have enough evidence to be innocent or guilty. Griffin ends up having to go to a new school called JFK but Griffin likes calling it "Jail for Kids". Griffin and his friends team up to find the culprit. Will Griffin be found innocent? Or live the rest of his childhood behind bars?

This book was phenomenal. It made me want to read all 31 chapters in one sitting. I love how much detail was in this book and Gordon Korman did a great job. I highly recommend this novel to anybody who likes a mystery novel that is possible in real life.
