Kathi Appelt, because she wrote the book Underneath which is my favorite book.

What genre do you prefer to read?

Mysteries and adventure books.

Where do you learn about books you might want to read in the future?

The library and look around in the young adults section until I find a book that catches my eye.

Where do you like to read best?

When it is dark out and a lamp is on with a small amount of light.

When is your favorite time of the day to read and why?

Approximately 9:47pm because it is dark out but I can still see.

This book is about a hobbit who is challenged to help Gandalf the Wizard and 13 dwarves reclaim their lost gold. It has a very powerful message that you can do anything. This is an unusual adventure book that anyone can enjoy.

The book begins with Gandalf the Wizard meeting Bilbo and unexpectedly coming back the next day with 13 dwarves. They talk about an adventure to reclaim their lost gold which even Biblo would go on. Bilbo is a hobbit and hobbits aren't adventurous at all. They then travel to the lost dwarven city to reclaim their lost treasure. They run into a lot of unexpected challenges like mountain trolls, goblins, wargs, and a dangerous forest filled with magical enchantments. They finally made it to the cave with Smaug, the dragon guarding the treasure. Will our heroes survive or will they perish in the might of Smaug the dragon? Read The Hobbit to find out!

I would recommend this book to anyone who likes books with lots of twists in the adventure. I thought that this book was laid out wonderfully and the story was perfect.
